Key Words: Education, Opportunities, Knowledge, Environment

Topic: Representative Research

- When teaching yourself certain parts of your education, you start to find out what you really want to be in life (Miranda, 13).
- Living in a bad environment and trying to stay out of trouble may be hard, but the comprehension of the college process can be very difficult (Miranda, 13).
- Discussing what you want to be in life is a great opportunity to gain knowledge of what you want to do (Miranda, 13).
- When you want to succeed, you don’t want to worry about what other people think. You want to focus on what you can control (Miranda, 13).
- The most important point is why do immigrants from Mexico want to receive another education in the United States (Miranda, 13).
- Receiving an education may cost quite a bit of money, but if you want to strive and succeed in life, then it is worth it (Miranda, 13).

Assessment: This source written by Miranda is very important because when a student wants to have a better education, they don’t want to be around a bad environment. Narratives 23 and 34 in the History 12 class explain how getting a variety of education and meeting new people that won’t influence you in a bad way is very important. It is important to see and experience more so your view of things can broaden and you will accept people for who they are. Not everyone wants the same career and once you pick your career, you should stick to it for many years and learn a lot from it. This article is very short and it needs to give more detail of what happens to the students who are in a bad environment? Also, this article should talk about what role did the parents play into their child’s education?